Why GRADUATE STUDIES in ECONOMICS?

The Economics graduate programs prepare students for both applied and theoretical academic research, and for non-academic careers in both the private and public sectors. The PhD program involves a core of courses in economic theory and quantitative methods, together with a range of specialized electives chosen according to each student’s interest and designed to impart economic knowledge that is at the forefront of the discipline. There are opportunities to collaborate with the Smith School of Business, Policy Studies, Law and other departments.

Why QUEEN’S?

Economics at Queen’s is widely recognized as one of the leading Economics departments in Canada. The programs are challenging, rigorous, and of small to medium size. Graduates have had great success in initial job placements and in their subsequent careers. All students are assigned an office with a phone and a computer to provide network access.

RESEARCH Areas

- Macroeconomics
- Macroeconomic Theory
- Applied Microeconomics
- Applied Econometrics
- Economic History

Visit the Economics Department website to read faculty profiles and learn more about faculty members’ research areas. Typically, economics PhD students find a supervisor after joining the PhD program and in the course of taking their first and second year courses, during which most students percolate towards a specific area of research interest.

“The Queen’s Economics Department is a fantastic place to be a graduate student. The coursework is challenging and the professors are approachable. The department hosts regular workshops in microeconomics, macroeconomics and econometrics and provides grad students with the opportunity to meet and engage with visiting researchers.”

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (PHD)

YEAR I

ACHIEVE YOUR ACADEMIC GOALS

- Key priorities include completing core courses and comprehensive examination requirements.
- By the end of first year, students should take 9 credits towards PhD comprehensives.
- By the end of year one, students should have a deeper understanding of key issues and debates relating to their chosen areas of study.

MAXIMIZE RESEARCH IMPACT

- Think about audiences for your research.
- Apply to SSHRC, OGS, and other funding.
- Attend conferences in your field.
- Apply for the Graduate Dean’s Travel Grant for Doctoral Field Research.

BUILD SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE

- Serve on departmental, faculty or university committees. Talk to the Economics Graduate Student Executive for tips on getting involved.
- Consider positions in student services, the QGPS, or media outlets like the Queen’s Journal, CIFRG, and the QSG Blog. Look in the AMS Clubs Directory.
- Use a Teaching Assistant or Research Assistant position to develop your skills and experience.

ENGAGE WITH YOUR COMMUNITY

- Attend departmental workshops regularly and meet with visiting speakers.
- Consider volunteering with different local community organizations, such as Martha’s Table or Loving Spoonful.

LAUNCH YOUR CAREER

- Finding career fit starts with knowing yourself. Take a Career Services career planning workshop or meet with a career counselor for help.
- Check out books like "So What Are You Going to Do With That?" or The Academic Job Search from the Career Resource Area for advice on various career options.
- Start reading publications like University Affairs and the Chronicle of Higher Education. Browse non-academic labour market websites.
- Stay on the lookout for special events like Graduate Student Career Week to explore your career pathways.

What about FUNDING?

The minimum funding guarantee for Economics PhD students is $18,000 per year, throughout years 1-4. However, most students receive substantially higher. In 2014-2015, the minimum level of funding for doctoral students within the department was $23,000. The funding package consists of scholarships and teaching assistantships.

We encourage all students to apply for external funding from OGS, SSHRC and other sources. Queen’s will automatically issue a $10,000 award to incoming PhD students who have won federal government tri-council awards.
