

Environmental Studies

Society has become more aware of the seriousness of the environmental problems we face. Yet, at the same time, we have realized that the solutions are not simple. To work towards environmental sustainability, people need to understand the multi-disciplinary nature of environmental problems. They need to have expertise in planning, policy, and many other fields in addition to scientific principles to deal with the social, economic, and cultural complexities that surround environmental issues.

TOP 5

Reasons to Study ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

- 1 Dive into messy, real-world problems. See academic knowledge in action, whether on campus or globally.
- 2 Gain transferable skills that employers want while learning how to prepare arguments and solve problems.
- 3 Help create the future world in which you want to live.
- 4 The best way to find solutions: combining both the arts and the sciences.
- 5 Research-focused courses in upper years contribute to projects happening across Canada and around the world.

Why study in Kingston?

Since 1841, our community has been more than a collection of bright minds – Queen's has attracted students with an ambitious spirit. Queen's has the highest retention rates, the highest graduation rates, and one of the highest employment rates among recent graduates. We are a research intensive university focused on the undergraduate experience. The BBC has identified Kingston as one of the GREATEST UNIVERSITY TOWNS in the world – and it is often awarded the safest city in Canada. It is a university city at the core; just a quick drive to Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and even New York. A university with more clubs per capita than any other university in Canada, and a city with more restaurants per capita than any other city in North America – you will have the experience of a lifetime at Queen's – and graduate with a degree that is globally recognized among the best.
