Why GRADUATE STUDIES in LAW?

Immigration is at the heart of Canadian culture and industry. Over seven million foreign-born individuals call this country home, and over the next three years, we will welcome many more. Developed by leading immigration practitioners and academics from across the country, the Graduate Diploma in Immigration and Citizenship Law sets a new standard for immigration consultants.

The Graduate Diploma will equip you with the knowledge, practical skills and sound judgment necessary to become an immigration consultant, and to write the mandatory national exam to be a regulated practitioner.

Why QUEEN’S?

The Graduate Diploma is offered within the Faculty of Law at Queen's University, one of Canada’s leading law schools.

Queen's Law is a dynamic, academically acclaimed research and teaching institution with world-class researchers in immigration law and migration theory.

"There are many things I love about being an immigration consultant… variety in the type of work, the sense of meaning, connections to my community, personal growth and the feeling I’m contributing to my community and the entire nation.”

Peter Veress, Regulated Canadian Immigration Consultant

STUDY, interact and collaborate anytime, anywhere

The Graduate Diploma in Immigration and Citizenship Law is offered online. You’ll be able to work directly with faculty, and your fellow students in online forums, discussions and team activities such as case studies, simulations, and more. ICL 810 will also be available with in-class options, subject to demand, as soon as September 2021.

Key features of our online program include regular tutorials with Canada’s leading practitioners, real-time opportunities to practice both oral and written advocacy, as well as dedicated, intensive research and writing mini-courses.

Queen’s Law is not only one of Canada’s leading law schools. Its Certificate in Law program provides undergraduate-level legal education to Canadians from coast to coast, while the Graduate Diploma in Legal Services Management delivers executive business training to legal professionals.
