Why GRADUATE STUDIES in LAW?

Established firms, large and small, report that many new Law graduates have the legal skills they need to succeed as lawyers, but these graduates often lack the business process and management skills necessary to thrive in today's fast-changing legal markets. This Graduate Diploma will provide graduates with the knowledge and skills necessary to make legal services more accessible and more sustainable to provide by:

Examining the foundational areas of business and management education (such as strategy, operations, human capital, and marketing) and apply that foundational knowledge to the practice of law.

Providing a deep understanding of the economic and technological forces impacting the legal profession, equipping students to improve existing models of legal services delivery or innovate new ventures to take advantage of the forces impacting the legal profession.

Why QUEEN'S?

Queen's Graduate Diploma in Legal Services Management is unique in Canada. No other program offers the fundamentals of business for the practice of law. It fits the busy schedules of law students and articling professionals by being available 100% online, and is taught by leading faculty and practitioners.

Regardless of where your career takes you, from private practice to in-house work, public service or not-for-profits, the business of law matters. Queen's Graduate Diploma in Legal Services Management will help you be more successful in your career.

"Managing partners and law firm leaders consistently tell me they're looking for new lawyers with practical legal knowledge and business skills -- not just because these assets help lawyers connect more effectively with their commercial clients, but also because firms increasingly expect lawyers to 'own their practices' and be responsible for constantly improving their own productivity and value."

- Jordan Furlong, Legal analyst and author, speaker & consultant Owner/operator, Law'21

A new kind of lawyer needs a new kind of CLASSROOM

The intersection of business skills, law, and management isn't currently taught at most Canadian law schools. Some firms bring in business trainers. Some lawyers pay for workshops and EMBA programs once they realize they're falling behind. Some trade associations provide basic seminars. But until now, no law school has delivered a full range of future-proofing courses that lawyers need to thrive in practice.

We deliver our courses entirely online in a way that provides a highly personal and interactive experience while still fitting the busy schedules of legal professionals.

Admission REQUIREMENTS

- A Bachelor's degree from a recognized university, or
- Enrolled in a JD program (we will consider JDs without an undergraduate degree), or
