

Geography

Geography can be defined as the integrated study of the Earth's places, societies, environments and landscapes. Among academic disciplines, Geography is unique in combining the social sciences and humanities with the physical sciences. In physical geography, or earth system science, we study natural processes, their interactions, as well as natural and human-generated environmental issues, such as climate change.

TOP 5 Reasons to study Geography and Planning

- 1 Hands-on lab and field work. Engage communities, see results.
- 2 Gain a wide range of transferable skills that stand out in the labour market, like teamwork, cultural sensitivity, and tech savviness.
- 3 Learn to make sensible judgements about matters involving the physical environment and society.
- 4 Question the world you live in and get the skills you need to change it.
- 5 Join a community of scholars with close and interactive relationships with each other.

Alumni Story

"Traveling and asking sometimes difficult questions was an integral part of my two geography degrees at Queen's... the trilogy of land, people, and the struggle over resources, which formed the basis of much of my geography training, shapes not only how we should understand conflicts, but also how we can work to resolve them."

- Krista House, BAH '97

Why study in Kingston?

For 175 years, our community has been more than a collection of bright minds – Queen's has attracted students with an ambitious spirit. Queen's has the highest retention rates, the highest graduation rates, and one of the highest employment rates among recent graduates. We are a research intensive university focused on the undergraduate experience. The BBC has identified Kingston as one of the GREATEST UNIVERSITY TOWNS in the world – and it is often awarded the safest city in Canada. It is a university city at the core; just a quick drive to Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and even New York. A university with more clubs per capita than any other university in Canada, and a city with more restaurants per capita than any other city in North America – you will have the experience of a lifetime at Queen's – and graduate with a degree that is globally recognized among the best.
