

Indigenous Studies

The major in Indigenous Studies is an interdisciplinary degree, designed to draw together a range of course offerings on Indigenous history, culture, experience, language, and ways of knowing from many departments within Arts and Science. It will give both Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal students the opportunity to immerse themselves in Indigenous history and culture, to ensure that future leaders and policymakers have a solid foundation in the histories of First Nations, Métis and Inuit Peoples. Students expand their knowledge and understanding of Indigenous cultures, while developing professional skills such as innovative Indigenous approaches to learning and research to work with Aboriginal communities.

5 REASONS to study INDIGENOUS STUDIES

- 1 Students become qualified educators on the lived histories and current realities of Indigenous peoples in Canada and beyond, therefore contributing to the reconciliation process.
- 2 Students learn minimum of two to three Indigenous languages at the beginner level.
- 3 Students will develop skills to work with Indigenous knowledge systems and Indigenous methodologies, framed by Indigenous pedagogies and learning practices.
- 4 Classes combine traditional classroom education with experiential learning such as engagement with local Indigenous communities.
- 5 Interdisciplinary courses from the humanities, social sciences and beyond will broaden your worldviews and strengthen your critical thinking skills.

alumni STORY

"Through the interactions and the knowledge I have gained both in and outside of classes, I have grown as an individual in the best ways possible. In order to change the world, we must first change ourselves."

- Lauren Ball, BAH'19

Why study in Kingston?

For 175 years, our community has been more than a collection of bright minds – Queen's has attracted students with an ambitious spirit. Queen's has the highest retention rates, the highest graduation rates, and one of the highest employment rates among recent graduates. We are a research intensive university focused on the undergraduate experience. The BBC has identified Kingston as one of the GREATEST UNIVERSITY TOWNS in the world – and it is often awarded the safest city in Canada. It is a university city at the core; just a quick drive to Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and even New York. A university with more clubs per capita than any other university in Canada, and a city with more restaurants per capita than any other city in North America – you will have the experience of a lifetime at Queen's – and graduate with a degree that is globally recognized among the best.
