QUEEN'S CAREER SERVICES

Queen's Career Services connects you to your target student recruitment audience and builds your brand on campus. Career Services staff can provide insight about programs, students, sessional dates, and upcoming opportunities as well as handling all event logistics.

7 Ways to Promote Your Opportunities to QUALIFIED QUEEN'S STUDENTS:

2 Attend a Fair

The best way to connect face-to-face with thousands of students is through one of our four annual Career Fairs. We host a general Career Fair, a twice-annual Engineering & Technology Fair, and a Summer Opportunities Fair.

4 Hire an Intern

Queen's offers internship programs and other experiential learning opportunities, such as the Queen's Undergraduate Internship Program (QUIP) or the Masters of Engineering Industrial Internship Program (M.Eng)

6 Advertise with Us

To maintain your presence on campus year-round, Career Services offers online and print advertising:

1. Our online Featured Employers Directory appears on the student side of our website and highlights top companies recruiting on campus.
2. What's Next? Magazine is a full-colour publication targeted to Queen's undergraduate and graduate students. Over 2,500 print copies are circulated to students at career fair events, and the magazine is also made available online.

Post a Job 1

Queen's MyCareer job board is accessible to students of all years, programs, and disciplines, and to Queen's alumni. Post at any time of year, with no charge, or purchase a Featured Posting.

Hold an Event 3

Career Services can assist with the logistics of on-campus events such as information sessions, office hours, and more.

Interview On Site 5

Book one of our 12 on-site interview rooms, and have Career Services staff handle your interview scheduling.

Become a Sponsor 7

Sponsorship opportunities in conjunction with our Career Fair events are an excellent way to build brand awareness among your target student recruitment audience, and to connect with students.

A complete list of our services, and more information, can be found on our Employers & Recruiters webpage.
