Application FAQs

What do I need to know to APPLY?

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS
- A minimum B+ average in the last two years of an Honours (4-year) bachelors program in a related social science field. Students with humanities-based backgrounds or from traditionally underrepresented fields may also be considered for admission if they have completed sufficient courses in social science.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS
- Academic writing sample (10-15 pages).
- If English is not a native language, prospective students must meet the English Language Proficiency Requirements in writing, speaking, reading, and listening. The School of Graduate Studies requires the following minimum scores: TOEFL (paper-based): 550, (2) TOEFL iBT: Writing (24/30), Speaking (22/30), Reading (22/30), Listening (20/30), for a total of 88/120 (applicants must have the minimum score in each test as well as the minimum overall score), or (3) IELTS: 7.0 (academic module overall band score), or (4) PTE Academic: 65.
- Two academic reference letters.

Where can I get help?

Queen’s provides you with a broad range of support services from your first point of contact with the university through to graduation. Ranging from help with academics and careers, to physical, emotional, or spiritual resources — our welcoming environment offers the programs and services you need to be successful, both academically and personally. Check out the HABITAT for available resources.

What about FUNDING?

The Department of Global Development Studies provides financial support for MA students enrolled in the one-year course-based program. The current minimum level of funding is approximately $16,000 for the academic year. Financial support is derived from a combination of internal and external awards and teaching assistantships. Equivalent funding for the second year of the thesis-based stream is not guaranteed. See the School of Graduate Studies’ information on awards and scholarships and the department’s Financial Support page.

Why GRADUATE STUDIES in GLOBAL DEVELOPMENT STUDIES?

An internationally-oriented and interdisciplinary program, the MA in Global Development Studies provides advanced research training for students seeking to pursue careers in government, academia, development agencies, journalism, media, teaching, business and law. Combining political-economy perspectives with cultural analysis, our students pose key questions about equitable and sustainable development in a world beset by stark inequalities, political turbulence and pressing environmental challenges. With small classes and close supervision, we give students the tools they need to pursue interdisciplinary research projects on the topics that they are passionate about. At the same time, we ensure they build the core analytical and communication skills sought by employers in Canada and internationally. From the grassroots to the global, our students attain the skills and knowledge needed to make an impact in our increasingly connected world!

“By studying within such a small and new program I was able to design my curriculum in accordance with my research interests.”

— Sara Korosi, MA

Why QUEEN’S?

Our faculty are recognised as academic leaders in their fields and coordinate major international research projects in diverse countries such as India, South Africa, Cuba and Canada. They bring these active research experiences into the classroom, offering courses on topics ranging from development finance and trade, through to gender, climate change and peace. We believe that this unique classroom experience combined with close supervision provides students with the analytical tools and thematic knowledge needed to undertake original research projects, either through a one year degree or a two-year program involving field research. For students keen to further advance and apply their skills, we offer the next step in research training through our PhD programme in Global Development Studies.

Our positive emphasis on cross-cultural learning and social justice helps produce informed citizens who are uniquely positioned to craft positive social change in Canada and abroad. More broadly, at Queen’s graduate students from all disciplines learn and discover in a close-knit intellectual community. With the world’s best scholars, prize-winning professional development opportunities, excellent funding packages and life in the historic waterfront city of Kingston, Queen’s offers a uniquely stimulating environment for graduate studies.

All students are admitted into the course-based stream. Students interested in transitioning into the thesis-based stream apply for entry at the end of the Fall term during their first year. A transition into the two-year stream is dependent on having an overall average of at least A- in Fall term courses a clear research project and supervisory support from a faculty member.

RESEARCH Areas

- The Political Economy of Development
- The Cultural Politics of Development
- Indigenous Studies
- Environment, Development and Sustainability

Before applying, we encourage you to identify your key area(s) of research interest to make sure you are a good fit with the areas that we teach and supervise in. You do not need to find a specific supervisor. However, you are welcome to contact potential supervisors at the application stage to discuss your area of research interest and related experience and to check if they are accepting new graduate students to supervise. Faculty profiles with their research and/or supervisory interests are available on our departmental website. Once admitted, we will happily help you develop your research project and find a suitable supervisor.

Program STRUCTURE

The Masters of Global Development Studies has two streams:
- The one-year course-based stream requires students to complete six courses and write a 50-60 page Major Research Paper (MRP).
- The two-year thesis-based stream requires students to complete six courses and write a 75-100 page thesis based on more extensive research typically involving fieldwork. The thesis is defended before a committee of three examiners.
Global Development Studies MA Map

GETTING STARTED

• Start with key priorities like developing your relationship with your supervisor, forming your committee, and doing your coursework.
• Consider how your course papers can contribute to your MA Major Research Paper or thesis.
• Find your way through the academic process with help from departmental and Expanding Horizons professional development workshops, the department Grad Chair and the SGS Habitat.

INTERMEDIATE STAGE

• Complete your coursework, begin to research and write your Major Research Paper or thesis.
• If accepted into the thesis stream, consult with your supervisor about committee members.

WRAPPING UP

• Complete your Major Research Paper or thesis.
• Consider publication options for your research.
• Attend or present at a major conference in your field, such as the Canadian Association of International Development (CAISD) annual conference.
• Set up a meeting with the School of Graduate Studies for a Grad Chat to discuss your research.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

A graduate degree in Global Development Studies can equip you with:
• Knowledge and technical skills
• Effective communication skills in multiple forms for diverse audiences
• Information management: prioritize, organize and synthesize large amounts of information
• Time management: meet deadlines and manage responsibilities despite competing demands
• Project management: develop ideas, gather information, analyze, critically appraise findings, draw and act on conclusions
• Creativity and innovation
• Perseverance
• Independence and experience as a collaborative worker
• Awareness, an understanding of sound ethical practices, social responsibility, responsible research and cultural sensitivities
• Professionalism in all aspects of work, research, and interactions
• Leadership initiative and vision leading people and discussion

WHERE CAN I GO?

A Master’s degree in Global Development Studies can take your career in many directions. Many of our MA students choose to continue their academic inquiry with a PhD. Our Master’s students are equipped with a strong foundation for careers in:
• Public Service
• Government
• Non-governmental organizations
• Non-profit organizations
• International aid work
• Academia
• Law
• Media

Taking time to explore career options, build experience, and network can help you have a smooth transition to the world of work after graduation.

Visit careers.queensu.ca/gradmaps for the online version with links!

© Career Services, Queen’s University, 2019-2020

* This map is intended to provide suggestions for activities and careers, but everyone’s abilities, experiences, and constraints are different. Build your own Grad Map using our online My Grad Map tool.