Why GRADUATE STUDIES in ART HISTORY?
The MA in Art History offers advanced training in the study of visual and material culture from the Middle Ages to the present. The Queen's Art History program is strongly committed to mentoring and to the training of graduate students in a variety of interdisciplinary approaches, methodologies, and issues, including the technical examination of art, gender studies, critical theory, cultural representation, curatorial studies, and the relationships among art, literature, and science.

The program offers a wide range of courses that delve into case studies relating to broader issues. All Art History courses emphasize visual literacy and the contextual relevance of the discipline within culture and history.

Why QUEEN'S?
The Art History program at Queen's maintains close ties with the Agnes Etherington Art Centre on campus, which features innovative exhibitions, programs, and high-quality collections.

"Choosing Art History at Queen's was one of the best decisions I have ever made. Attending Queen's was a positive and nurturing experience, made possible because of an advisor and faculty members who were active scholars, thoughtful pedagogues and caring mentors."

– John Potvin, PhD

The Queen's Art History program shares a department with Canada's only Master's in Art Conservation program, and our graduate students have the opportunity to take lecture courses in Art Conservation and work with Art Conservation Faculty. Graduate students in Art History carry out internships locally and abroad, recently at such institutions as the National Gallery of Canada, the Kunsthistorisches Museum in Vienna, the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, and the Louvre in Paris. The program offers opportunities to teach, has an outstanding record of supporting students to win major grants, and offers opportunities to participate in a student-organized peer-reviewed interdisciplinary international conference.

What about FUNDING?

MA students in Art History receive funding for each of the two years of the program. The amount varies each year, but will be approximately $10,000-$15,000 per year for students who do not hold major external awards. Depending on the needs of the Department, a portion of a Master’s student’s funding may be allocated as a Teaching Assistantship.

Queen’s Art History is proud to have an extraordinary track record of success with SSHRC and other major external awards. MA students will be offered a series of workshops to help with these award applications. Queen’s will automatically issue a one time $5,000 award to incoming Masters students who have won federal government tri-council awards. For more information on many external awards, see the School of Graduate Studies’ information on...
