Why GRADUATE STUDIES in CULTURAL STUDIES?

Cultural Studies is graduate school reinvented for the 21st century. We are a self-governing, interdisciplinary graduate program for people who want to develop the tools to critically understand the world, and change it. The complexity of contemporary culture means that more than ever before society needs people trained in multiple disciplines, theories and practices. We work with communities throughout and beyond the university to create new forms and methods of research that could not be done in traditional departments. Our students write plays and curate exhibitions. They travel to Argentina, China and Turkey for their research. They win the highest academic accolades, including Fulbright and Vanier scholarships.

What unites all these diverse research agendas is our passion for social justice. We believe that all our research should in some way be capable of addressing real world problems. Students work with indigenous peoples, artists, students, prisoners and activist groups to bring about social transformation. They also conduct artistic research-creation, and present their work in a variety of media. When they graduate, our students have superior intellectual tools and practical skills that will last them a lifetime outside of the university.

“Cultural Studies hosts a lively community of scholars, artists, and activists with a broad array of interests and creative practices. The ability to build an international research-creation project allowed me to integrate my research fields with my practice.”

- Zaira Zarza, PhD 2015

Why QUEEN’S?

Comprising over 100 students and over 90 distinguished faculty from 22 disciplines, Cultural Studies is an innovative and growing interdisciplinary research program for MA and PhD students. Our programs include opportunities for cultural production and community-activist fieldwork as options alongside traditional academic research. We are also committed to a diversity of students and faculty and to the global expertise that they bring to the cultural and academic fields. Students participate equally with faculty in the program’s governance.

Visit the Cultural Studies Program website to read faculty profiles and learn more about faculty members’ research areas. When you find a faculty member with similar research interests to yours, contact him/her and tell them about your interest in graduate work and related experience.
INTERMEDIATE STAGE

GETTING STARTED
- Start with key priorities like developing your relationship with your supervisor, forming your committee, and doing your coursework.
- Regularly attend the Cultural Studies Colloquium (CUST 802/902) to learn about the scope of Cultural Studies research.
- Find your way through the academic process with help from departmental and Expanding Horizons professional development workshops, the department Grad Chair and the OGS Hub.

ACHIEVE YOUR ACADEMIC GOALS
- Consult with your supervisor and confirm which pattern you will be following for your thesis or project.
- Complete further coursework if required, and gain ethics clearance for your research if required.
- Form your supervisory committee, get your research proposal approved, and begin to research and write your project or thesis.
- Consider studying abroad with a Cultural Studies exchange partner.

WRAPPING UP
- Complete your project or thesis. Submit your thesis or project to the OSPACE archive.

MAXIMIZE RESEARCH IMPACT
- Attend or present at a graduate conference such as UnDisciplined, the Cultural Studies graduate symposium.
