Global Development Studies MA Map
Navigating Graduate Studies and Beyond

Why GRADUATE STUDIES in GLOBAL DEVELOPMENT STUDIES?

An internationally-oriented and interdisciplinary program, the MA in Global Development Studies provides advanced research training for students seeking to pursue careers in government, academia, development agencies, journalism, media, teaching, business and law. Combining political-economy perspectives with cultural analysis, our students pose key questions about equitable and sustainable development in a world beset by stark inequalities, political turbulence and pressing environmental challenges. With small classes and close supervision, we give students the tools they need to pursue interdisciplinary research projects on the topics that they are passionate about. At the same time, we ensure they build the core analytical and communication skills sought by employers in Canada and internationally. From the grassroots to the global, our students attain the skills and knowledge needed to make an impact in our increasingly connected world!

"By studying within such a small and new program I was able to design my curriculum in accordance with my research interests.”

– Sara Korosi, MA

Why QUEEN’S?

Our faculty are recognised as academic leaders in their fields and coordinate major international research projects in diverse countries such as India, South Africa, Cuba and Canada. They bring these active research experiences into the classroom, offering courses on topics ranging from development finance and trade, through to gender, climate change and beyond. We believe that this unique classroom experience combined with close supervision provides students with the analytical tools and thematic knowledge needed to undertake original research projects, either through a one-year degree or a two-year advanced programme involving field research. For students keen to further advance and apply their skills, we offer the next step in research training through our PhD programme in Global Development Studies.

Our positive emphasis on cross-cultural learning and social justice helps produce informed citizens who are uniquely positioned to craft positive social change in Canada and abroad. More broadly, at Queen’s graduate students from all disciplines learn and discover in a close-knit intellectual community. With the world’s best scholars, prizewinning professional development opportunities, excellent funding packages and life in the historic waterfront city of Kingston, Queen’s offers a uniquely stimulating environment for graduate studies.

RESEARCH Areas

- The Political Economy of Development
- The Cultural Politics of Development
- Indigenous Studies
- Environment, Development and Sustainability

Before applying, we encourage you to identify your key area(s) of research interest to make sure you are a good fit with the areas that we teach and supervise. You do not need to find a specific supervisor. However, you are welcome to contact potential supervisors at the application stage to tell them about your interest in graduate work, area of research interest and related experience and to check if they are accepting new graduate students to supervise. Faculty profiles with their research and/or supervision interests are available on our departmental website. Once admitted, we will happily help you develop your research project and find a suitable supervisor.

Program STRUCTURE

The Masters of Global Development Studies has two streams:

- The one-year course-based stream requires students to complete six courses and write a 50-60 page Major Research Paper (MRP).
- The two-year thesis-based stream requires students to complete six courses and write a 75-100 page thesis and defend it before a committee of three examiners.

All students are admitted into the course-based stream. Students interested in transitioning into the thesis-based stream apply for entry at the end of the Fall term during their first year. A transition into the two-year stream is dependent on having an overall average of at least A- in Fall term classes, a clear research project and supervisory support from a faculty member.
Global Development Studies

Getting Started

- Start with key priorities like developing your relationship with your supervisor, forming your committee, and doing your coursework.
- Consider how your course papers can contribute to your MA Major Research Paper or thesis.
- Find your way through the academic process with help from departmental and Expanding Horizons professional development workshops, the department Grad Chair and the SGS Habitat.

Maximize Research Impact

- Start to think about the audiences for your research.
- If you will be continuing graduate studies, apply for SSHRC and OGS funding.
- If you are an international student interested in staying in Canada, consider speaking with an International Student Advisor.
- Practice articulating the skills you have been developing in settings outside the university, such as casual conversation, networking, and interviews. Get help from a Career Services workshop.
- Do some targeted networking with people working in careers of interest, through Queen’s Connects or LinkedIn. Connect to friends and colleagues through the department’s LinkedIn Group. Get help from a Career Services workshop.

Build Skills and Experience

- Consider positions in student services, the SGPS, or media outlets like the SGS Blog. Look in the AMS Clubs Directory for more ideas.
- Serve on departmental, faculty or university committees. Talk to your Grad Chair and supervisor about opportunities.
- Check out professional development workshops from Expanding Horizons and attend weekly Studies in National and International Development (SNID) lectures.
- Participate in your graduate and professional community through activities such as graduate student outreach programs, organizing conferences, and research groups.
- Prepare for work or studies in a multi-cultural environment by taking the OUC and Four Directions Aboriginal Student Centre’s Training Certificate.
- If you are an international student interested in staying in Canada, consider speaking with an International Student Advisor.
- Participate in hiring committees and attend job talks. Start focusing on areas of interest. Research organizations of interest and start putting together your CV or resume for potential positions of interest. Get help from Career Services with job searching, resumes, or interviews.

Engage With Your Community

- Explore how you can connect with your community through experiential opportunities on- and off-campus.
- Consider volunteering with different local community organizations, such as Martha’s Table, or Loving Spoonful.
- Participate in graduate and professional community through activities such as graduate student outreach programs, organizing conferences, and research groups.
- Prepare for work or studies in a multi-cultural environment by taking the OUC and Four Directions Aboriginal Student Centre’s Training Certificate.
- If you are an international student interested in staying in Canada, consider speaking with an International Student Advisor.
- Participate in hiring committees and attend job talks. Start focusing on areas of interest. Research organizations of interest and start putting together your CV or resume for potential positions of interest. Get help from Career Services with job searching, resumes, or interviews.

Launch Your Career

- Finding a career that fits: Starts with knowing yourself. Get help by taking a Career Services career planning workshop or meeting with a career counsellor. Check out books like So What Are You Going to Do: With That? or The Academic Job Search from the Career Resource Area for advice on various career options.
- Start reading publications like University Affairs and the Chronicle of Higher Education. Browse non-academic labour market websites. Stay on the lookout for special events like Graduate Student Career Forum to explore your career pathways.
- Check admission test deadlines if needed for further studies.
- If you have a PhD, explore programs of interest reach out to faculty, and apply to PhD programs and external scholarships.
- Participate in hiring committees and attend job talks. Start focusing on areas of interest. Research organizations of interest and start putting together your CV or resume for potential positions of interest. Get help from Career Services with job searching, resumes, or interviews.

Intermediate Stage

- Complete your coursework; begin to research and write your Major Research Paper or thesis.
- If accepted into the thesis stream, consult with your supervisor about committee members.
- If you will be continuing graduate studies, apply for SSHRC and OGS funding.
- If you are an international student interested in staying in Canada, consider speaking with an International Student Advisor.
- Participate in hiring committees and attend job talks. Start focusing on areas of interest. Research organizations of interest and start putting together your CV or resume for potential positions of interest. Get help from Career Services with job searching, resumes, or interviews.

Wrapping Up

- Complete your Major Research Paper or thesis.
- Attend or present at a graduate conference at Queen’s or another Canadian university.
- Attend and participate in graduate seminars.
- Consider participating in the 3 Minute Thesis (3MT) competition.
- Expand your research audience through social media such as Twitter or a blog.
- Attend or present at a major conference in your field, such as the Canadian Association of International Development (CAIDID), annual conference. (The department pays for your membership)
- Set up a meeting with the School of Graduate Studies for a Grad Chat to discuss your research interests.
- Practice articulating the skills you have been developing in settings outside the university, such as casual conversation, networking, and interviews. Get help from a Career Services workshop.
- Check out opportunities for extra training through CTL, Expanding Horizons, Mitacs, or other sources to boost your skills.
- Investigate internships from Mitacs and other sources.
- Practice articulating the skills you have been developing in settings outside the university, such as casual conversation, networking, and interviews. Get help from a Career Services workshop.
- Check out opportunities for extra training through CTL, Expanding Horizons, Mitacs, or other sources to boost your skills.
- Investigate internships from Mitacs and other sources.

What Will I Learn?

A graduate degree in Global Development Studies can equip you with valuable and versatile skills, such as:
- Knowledge and technical skills
- Effective communication skills in multiple forms for diverse audiences
- Information management: prioritize, organize and synthesize large amounts of information
- Time management: meet deadlines and manage responsibilities despite competing demands
- Project management: develop ideas, gather information, analyze, critically appraise findings, draw and act on conclusions
- Creativity and innovation
- Perseverance
- Independence and experience as a collaborative worker
- An understanding of social ethical practices, social responsibility, responsible research and cultural sensitivity
- Professionalism in all aspects of work, research, and interactions
- Experience: initiative and vision leading people and discussion

Where Can I Go?

A Master’s degree in Global Development Studies can take your career in many directions. Many of our MA students choose to continue their academic inquiry with a PhD. Our Master’s students are equipped with a strong foundation for careers in:
- Public Service
- Government
- Non-governmental organizations
- Non-profit organizations
- International aid work
- Academia
- Law
- Media

Taking time to explore career options, build experience, and network can help you have a smooth transition to the world of work after graduation.

* This map is intended to provide suggestions for activities and careers, but everyone’s abilities, experiences, and constraints are different. Build your own Grad Map using our online My Grad Map tool.
Graduate Studies
FAQs

How do I use this map?

Whether you are considering or have embarked on graduate studies at Queen’s, use this map to plan for success in five overlapping areas of your career and academic life. The map helps you explore possibilities, set goals and track your individual accomplishments. Everyone’s journey is different – the guide offers options for finding your way at Queen’s and setting the foundation for your future. To make your own customized map, use the online My Grad Map tool.

Where can I get help?

Queen’s provides you with a broad range of support services from your first point of contact with the university through to graduation. Ranging from help with academics and careers, to physical, emotional, or spiritual resources – our welcoming environment offers the programs and services you need to be successful, both academically and personally. Check out the SGS HABITAT for available resources.

What is the community like?

At Queen’s, graduate students from all disciplines learn and discover in a close-knit intellectual community. You will find friends, peers and support among the graduate students enrolled in Queen’s more than 130 graduate programs within 50+ departments & research centres. With the world’s best scholars, prize winning professional development opportunities, excellent funding packages and life in the affordable, historic waterfront city of Kingston, Queen’s offers a wonderful environment for graduate studies. Queen’s is an integral part of the Kingston community, with the campus nestled in the core of the city, only a 10-minute walk to downtown with its shopping, dining and waterfront. For more about Kingston’s history and culture, see Queen’s University’s Discover Kingston page.

Application FAQs

What do I need to know to APPLY?

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS
- A minimum B+ average in the last two years of an Honours (4-year) bachelors program in a related social science field. Students with humanities-based backgrounds or from traditionally unrelated fields may also be considered for admission if they have completed sufficient courses in social science.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS
- Academic writing sample.
- If English is not a native language, prospective students must meet the English language proficiency requirements in writing, speaking, reading, and listening. The School of Graduate Studies requires the following minimum scores: TOEFL (paper-based): 550, (2) TOEFL iBT: Writing (24/30); Speaking (22/30); Reading (22/30); Listening (20/30), for a total of 88/120 (applicants must have the minimum score in each test as well as the minimum overall score), or (3) IELTS: 7.0 (academic module overall band score), or (4) PTE Academics: 65.

KEY DATES & DEADLINES
- Application due: January 31st.
- Notification of acceptance: Mid-February and onwards.
- Late applications will be considered for domestic applicants until June 1. However, January 31 is the deadline to be considered for additional awards and scholarships that could supplement the minimum financial award. Please email the DEVS Graduate Assistant for further information if you will be submitting an application after January 31.

Before you start your application, please review the Graduate studies application process.

What about FUNDING?

The Department of Global Development Studies provides financial support for MA students enrolled in the one-year course-based program. The current minimum level of funding is approximately $16,000 for the academic year. Financial support is derived from a combination of internal and external awards and teaching assistantships. Funding for the two-year thesis-based stream is not guaranteed. See the School of Graduate Studies’ information on awards and scholarships and the department’s Financial Support page.