Graduate Studies
FAQs

Application FAQs

What do I need to know to APPLY?

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS
• 4 year undergraduate degree in Political Science (or equivalent).
• Grade requirements: minimum B+ average.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS
• If English is not a native language, prospective students must meet the English language proficiency requirements in writing, speaking, reading, and listening. The School of Graduate Studies requires the following minimum scores: TOEFL (paper-based): 550, (TOEFL iBT: Writing 22/30), Speaking (21/30), Reading (22/30), Listening (22/30), for a total of 88/120 (applicants must have the minimum score in each test as well as the minimum overall score), or (3) IELTS: 7.0 (academic module overall band score), or (4) PTE Academics: 65.

KEY DATES & DEADLINES
• Application due: Late January (see Political Studies website).
• Notification of acceptance: March

Before you start your application, please review the Graduate Studies application process.

What about FUNDING?

Each offer of admission guarantees a minimum level of funding for the duration of the student’s period of funding-eligibility (one year for MA students). This funding typically consists of graduate awards and teaching assistantships. We encourage applicants to apply for additional funding through external scholarships, e.g. SSHRC. Incoming graduate students who win SSHRC awards are automatically provided a one time top-up award by Queen’s.

For more information, please visit: queensu.ca/politics/graduate/ma-programs.

Why GRADUATE STUDIES in POLITICAL STUDIES?

The Department of Political Studies at Queen’s University has long been known for its graduate programs. We are small enough to provide our students with a highly personalized graduate experience, and our faculty are strong, diverse, and well recognized for their research so that we can provide a well-rounded education that gives our graduates a solid basis for a wide range of careers. The department is particularly well known for its strength in the study of ethnically divided and diverse societies.

Why QUEEN’S?

As one of Canada’s premier departments of political science, we are committed to both research and teaching. Our faculty are actively engaged in a wide range of research activities, and are highly visible in the discipline both in Canada and abroad. We are not less committed to our students.

“I have really appreciated my time as an MA student in the Political Science department at Queen’s. Small in size, the department fosters a sense of community and mutual support. Yet, the department remains highly competitive, boasting professors and students at the tops of their fields.” — Maria Krause, MA, PhD candidate

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

We offer two options for the Master’s of Political Studies:
• MA in Political Studies: students will complete 6 term-length courses and complete a Major Research Paper.
• MA in Political and Legal Thought: students in this collaborative program will complete 4 term-length courses in the field of Political Thought (out of a total of 6 required courses) as well as complete a Major Research Paper in an area relevant to the specialization.

FIELDS of Study
• Canadian Politics
• Comparative Politics
• Gender and Politics
• International Relations
• Political Theory

We encourage you to think about your area of research interest and to identify potential supervisors before applying. Visit the Political Studies Department website to read about the faculty’s research interests and learn more about potential supervisor interest areas. When you find a faculty member with similar research interests to yours, you may wish to contact them to discuss your interest in graduate work and related experience. This is also an opportunity for you to find out if the faculty member is accepting new graduate students to supervise. Meet with your potential supervisor at departmental events for...
INTERMEDIATE STAGE

- Complete your coursework.
- Begin to research and write your Major Research Paper.
- Finalize your Major Research Paper topic in consultation with your supervisor.
- Consider publication options for your research.
- Attend a major conference in your field, such as the Canadian Political Science Association (CPSA) Annual Conference or Association for the Study of Nationalities (ASN).
- Set up a meeting with the School of Graduate Studies for a Grad Chat to discuss your research interests.
- Consider putting an article in The Conversation.

WRAPPING UP

- Complete your Major Research Paper.
- Volunteer for hiring committees and attend job talks. Start focusing on areas of interest. Research organizations of interest and start putting together your CV or resume for potential positions of interest. Get help from Career Services with job searching, resumes, or interviews.
- Explore different careers of interest by reading alumni profiles, on the CPSA website, and using QueensConnect on LinkedIn to connect with Queen's alumni, or find alumni in various careers through "Ask an Alum".
- If you are considering a PhD, explore programs of interest, reach out to faculty, and apply to PhD programs and external scholarships.
- Practice articulating the skills you have been developing in settings outside the university, such as casual conversation, networking, and interviews. Get help from a Career Services workshop.
- Check out opportunities for extra training through CTL, Expanding Horizons, Mitacs, or other sources to boost your skills.
- Investigate internships from Mitacs and other sources.
- Consider publishing a paper as a PhD. Our Master’s students are prepared for work or studies in a multi-cultural environment by taking Intercultural Awareness Training Certificate (IATC) and the Institute of Intergovernmental Relations.
- Participate in your graduate and professional community through activities such as graduate student outreach programs, organizing conferences, and research groups.
- For help with teaching, get support from the Centre for Teaching and Learning. Enroll in SGS902 or the PTL certificate for more professional development in teaching and learning.
- Practice fortifying your skills, experiences and competencies. Use a Research Assistant or Teaching Assistant position to develop your research or teaching skills.
- If you are considering a PhD, explore programs of interest, reach out to faculty, and apply to PhD programs and external scholarships.
- Explore different careers of interest by reading alumni profiles, on the CPSA website, and using QueensConnect on LinkedIn to connect with Queen’s alumni, or find alumni in various careers through "Ask an Alum".
- If you are considering a PhD, explore programs of interest, reach out to faculty, and apply to PhD programs and external scholarships.
- Practice articulating the skills you have been developing in settings outside the university, such as casual conversation, networking, and interviews. Get help from a Career Services workshop.
- Check out opportunities for extra training through CTL, Expanding Horizons, Mitacs, or other sources to boost your skills.
- Investigate internships from Mitacs and other sources.
- Consider publishing a paper as a PhD. Our Master’s students are prepared for work or studies in a multi-cultural environment by taking Intercultural Awareness Training Certificate (IATC) and the Institute of Intergovernmental Relations.
- Participate in your graduate and professional community through activities such as graduate student outreach programs, organizing conferences, and research groups.
- For help with teaching, get support from the Centre for Teaching and Learning. Enroll in SGS902 or the PTL certificate for more professional development in teaching and learning.
- Practice fortifying your skills, experiences and competencies. Use a Research Assistant or Teaching Assistant position to develop your research or teaching skills.